- The James R. Gordon Ohio Understanding Award is a separate category of the still picture contest. The concept for the competition evolves around the presentation of in-depth projects that do not fall into the standard picture story category.
- Entries in this category should be prepared as any other picture story category. Use oua as the category code when preparing your entries for this category. There is no limit to the number of images for stories in this category.
- Also accompanying the entry must be a statement no longer than 300 words explaining the project, to give the judges a clear understanding of what they are judging. This statement must be in the caption field of the first image in the entry.
- The entry may be from an individual or a team effort from one publication or school.
- These entries are not included in the regular contest; however single photos from the entry can also be entered in the still contest, but in the form of a separate entry.

All Portfolio Categories

- Second and Third place as well as Awards of Excellence in each portfolio competition will be awarded at the judges discretion.
- An image may only appear once in your portfolio. If an image is included in a picture story in your portfolio it cannot also be entered as a single image in your portfolio.

- Portfolios are judged on the basis of photographic excellence, subject matter, versatility, technical quality and originality.
- Portfolio images will not be broken down into individual categories. If the portfolio contains an image or story which the contestant wants to enter into individual categories, separate images must be prepared and entered.

Captions

Caption information must be entered in the individual appropriate fields. You must use proper upper and lower case for all fields. Images that do not have the caption information entered in the proper fields will be disqualified.

The caption field should only contain the caption. It should not include any other information. Your byline, publication name and other information are to be entered into the proper field.

Edit captions so they are brief but comprehensive. Ask yourself if the judges really need every detail in your caption to understand what they are looking at. If the answer is no, then eliminate it.

Caption: A brief description of the photo which should not contain your name or publication's name.

Headline: Short name or title you give to your entry

Supp Cat 1: Full name of category as listed in the rules

City: City where image was taken

State: State where image was taken

Country: Country where photo was taken

Date: Date the photo was taken

Byline or Author: Your name

Credit: Newspaper, School or copyright holder's name or specify Freelance

Picture Story and Team Picture Story Entries

A brief overview should precede the caption on the first image of all picture story entries. All images in any picture story category are to be placed into a folder. This folder is to be named using the proper category code, underscore, photographer's code, underscore, followed by a slug for the story. Example: fps_jqscs_sisters would be the folder name for a Feature Picture Story Entry entered by Joe Q. Shooter working in Columbus with a slug of sisters.

The files within that folder should all have the same slug. Only the two digit number following the slug should change. The numbers will dictate in which order the files will be viewed within the story.

Example:

fps_jqscs_sisters01.jpg

fps_jqscs_sisters02.jpg

fps_jqscs_sisters03.jpg

etc.

Entrants should substitute the first five letters of the publication's city in lieu of the photographer's code for team picture story entries. Example: tps_dayto_terror would be the folder name for a Team Picture Story Entry entered by the Dayton Daily News with a slug of terror. The files contained inside would follow suit.

Example:

tps_dayto_terror01.jpg

tps_dayto_terror02.jpg

tps_dayto_terror03.jpg

etc

Portfolio and Student POY Entries

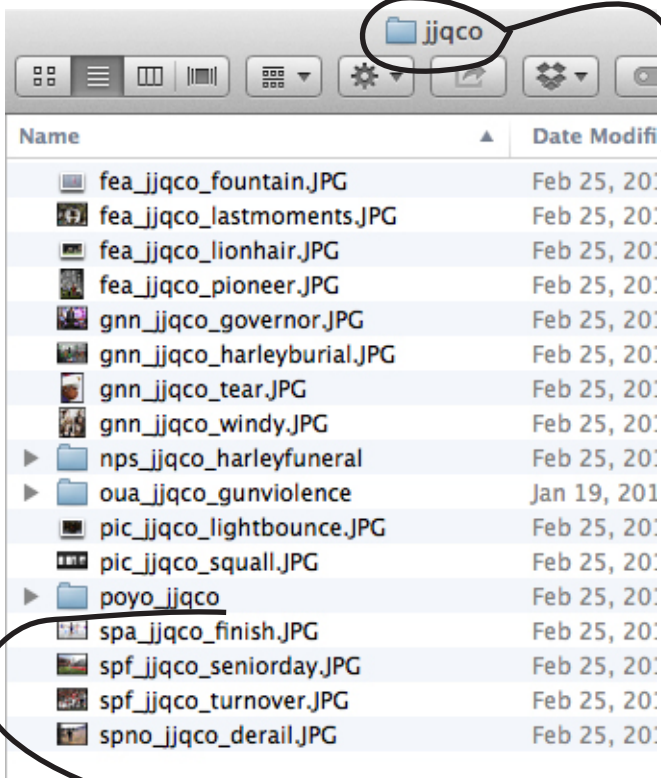

Your POY, Sports Portfolio or Student POY entry folder should be named using the proper category code, underscore, followed by the photographer's code. Example: poyo_jqscs would be the folder name for a portfolio entered by Joe Q. Smith working in Columbus.

The files within the folder should be named as you would if the photo was being entered in an individual category preceded by a double digit number (ex: 01, 02, 03, etc) so that the portfolio can be viewed in the order you wish when sorted by filename. (See example next page).

Preparing and Submitting Your Entry

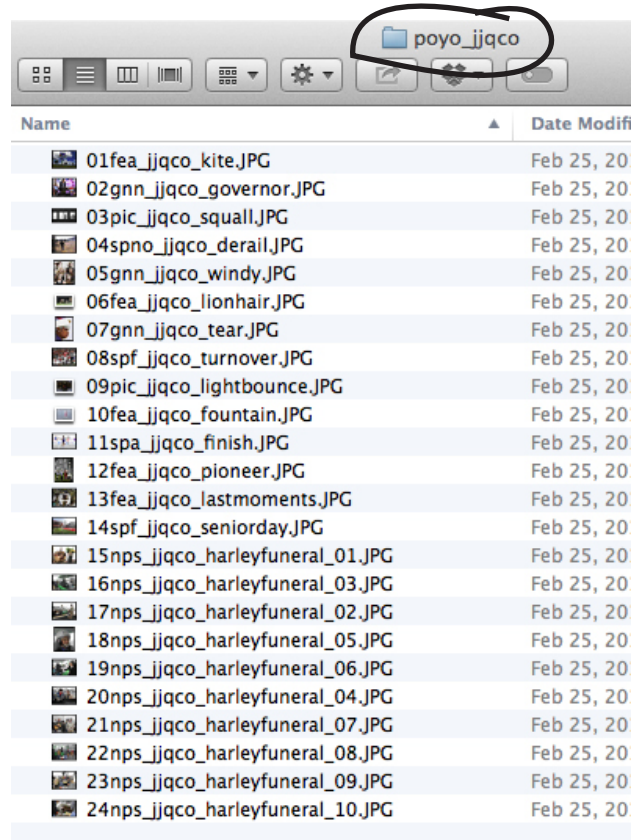

1. Crop images to 10 inches by 200 dpi with a JPEG setting of 8 (try to keep file sizes around 1 MB)
2. Prepare one main folder with all your entries labeled with your photographer's code. DO NOT include your entry form in this folder.
3. Make a zip file of the folder by right-clicking and choosing Compress (on a Mac)
4. Go to <http://onpa.org/contest.htm> and enter the required fields.
5. Upload your zip file from your hard drive, then click Submit - after your file uploads, you will see a Thank You message that includes a link to the ONPA PayPal page. You will also get an email confirmation.
6. Email your Entry Form (as JPEG or PDF) to krobertson@dispatch.com with your photographer's code as the subject. Kyle will reply that your entry form has been received but each entry will not be opened until after the deadline.
7. Make your contest/dues payment online (using PayPal at <http://onpa.org/joinonpa.htm>) when you upload your entry OR if paying by check:
8. Send check payable to ONPA, Inc. to Jonathan Quilter, 62 E. Broad St., P.O. Box 1289, Columbus, OH 43216 (Mail your check by Friday, March 2, 2018).

An example of how an entry should look:

In one folder named with your photographer's code, include:

- your singles entries (NOT in individual folders)
- your story entries and your portfolio entries (in properly labeled individual folders).
- Please email your entry form file separately - do not include it in this folder as explained in gray box on previous page.

This example shows how a portfolio entry (Photographer of the Year, Sports POY or College POY) should be organized. The files should start with a number preceding the filename so they will be viewed by the judges in the order you wish. Although this is a portfolio category, the labeling is such so that we can determine you are meeting the requirements of entering.
